Labour in Vain, or Coals to Newcastle:

wander, The little of the stone

IN A

SERMON

TO THE

PEOPLE

OF

Queen-Hith.

ECCLUS. VIII, 10.

Kindle not the Coals of a Sinner, lest thou be burnt with the Flame of his Fire.

LONDON,

Printed, and Sold by H. Hills in Black-Fryars, near the Water-side, 1709. Labour in Vain, or Coals to Newcasse:

nin nin

V-10

be ch

an of

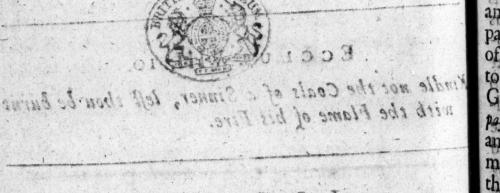

or M

th

SERMON

PEOPLE"

Queen-Hith.

LONDON,
inted, and Sold by HAM in Flaces From a near the Vater fide, 1700 is de wife of to the Subrection of whole Societies; with tery principal to them (Ares, to lend their helping hands to overturn the Publick Weal, and thereby thin and thereby thin the factor of the principal and the factor of th eported, that an Earles as he was flying in the Borne oferior confuming upon tur Akar.

en Men sie grought upon, by fost Bomentarions of ferve, and such Baits as in outward appearance are wold the ill influence of fuch Baits as thefe, left we be eftroyed by the cognitor. along and Mitery which behaving aver E coc L uvs. VIII. 16.

People of QUEEN-HITH.

Kindle not the Coals of a Sinner, lest thou be burnt with the Flame of his Fire.

Ince our Holy Church, in her fixth Article of Religion, hath allow'd the Apocryphal Books to be read, for Example of Life and Instruction of Manners hope I shall not transgress any of her holy Rules and Ordinances, by taking a Text out of the Writings of the Son of Syrack, wherein many admirable Morals and wife Directions are contain'd. And as 'tis no small Part of Wisdom to avoid the Temptations and Snares of Satan, who is described by Job as compassing the Earth to gain the Souls of Men into a state of Apostacy from God has the Pharifees are said by our Saviour to com-Pass Sea and Land to make Proselytes to their Will-worship and Superstition; so 'tis a very considerable part of human Prudence to keep such a watch over themselves, that they may not be mif-led from their Duty to God or their Country, by the subtile Infinuations of crafty. Men, who under specious pretences of Kindness to them, shall endeavour to draw them in to serve private Interests. This ill Design may proceed so far, as to be made made use of to the Subversion of whole Societies; viz. When Men are wrought upon, by fost Fomentations of Flattery, and such Baits as in outward appearance are very beneficial to themselves, to lend their helping hands to overturn the Publick Weal, and thereby ruin themselves in their private Capacities: 'Tis, I was saying, a great part of Human and Christian Prudence to avoid the ill Influence of such Baits as these, lest we be destroy'd by the common Calamity and Misery which they frequently bring upon whole Societies. this sense I apply the Text, Kindle not the Coals of a Sinner, left thou be burnt with the Flame of his Fire. of old reported, that an Eagle, as he was flying in the Air, faw a Burnt-offering confuming upon the Altar, and discern'd that the Priest, who should have attended it, was standing at a distance: hereby he was imbolden'd to stoop down, and snatch a piece of Flesh from the Altar, which he foon carried to his own Nest in order to But so it sell out, that a burndevour it as his Prey. ing Coal cleaving close to the Piece of Flesh, was carried with it into the Eagle's Nest, which soon fer it on fire, and burnt it to Ashes. All Divines, both Pagan and Christian, have apply'd this Relation to set forth the Danger of Sacrilege, by shewing, that whatsoever is withdrawn from the Service or Ministry of God, is like the Coal from the Altar, a matter of dangerous consequence to those who with-hold it. But if a sharpfighted Eagle, who is aspiring by the Air of popular Breath to plume himself with Honours, and attain to high Dignities, shall fetch Coals, tho far from the Altar, to enflame a Neighbourhood, or kindle the Fire of Contention in a publick Society; every good and wife Man will withdraw his Affiftance from kindling the Coals of such a Sinner, who will thereby find that he has carried Coals to Newcastle, viz. labour'd in vain: But may yet make this good use of his Disappointment, to learn how to apply Solomon's wife Observation upon the foolish Attempts of Mankind, that they end in Vanity and Vexation of Spirit. Now

how

6

T

Scriour
of o
be o 19, give will feed

shale follo com Evil

Coa hea fo n to f

> may Har Ter Pro

Mo ten wil

bec Ow

cati

Now that you may the better know, my Beloved, how to avoid kindling the Coals of a Sinner, I shall endeavour, z.

of

re

n

7-

0 oe

h

0

as

e r, d l-

to

1-

r-

n

n

h er

is

15

)-

ir

0

1-

re

d

ng

ne

1:

it,

n

a-

W

First, To shew you the right Use of Coals, as it is set forth in Holy Scripture.

Secondly, To shew what Reasons you have to avoid joining your Assistance, when a wrong Use is made of them.

Thirdly, To make some short Application.

First, The right Use of Coals laid down in the Holy Scripture, is to teach us that we should endeavour by our Kind and Christian Behaviour to soften the Hearts of our Fellow-Creatures, tho' they should happen to be our Enemies. This is St. Paul's direction; Rom. 12. 19, 20. Dearly beloved, avenge not your selves; but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine Enemy hunger, feed bim; if be thirst, give bim drink: for in so doing thou halt beap Coals of Fire on his bead. And in the Verse following, heaping Coals of Fire is explain'd by overcoming Evil with Good; Ver- 21. Be not overcome with Evil, but overcome Evil with Good. The Similitude of Coals is drawn from the Forge of a Blacksmith, who heaps Coals on the Iron which he intends to soften, and to make fit to be wrought into that shape as is sutable to some good use and purpose. And in this manner, they who are kind and beneficent to their Enemies, may, by frequent Civilities and Benefactions, soften the Hardness of their Hearts, and bring them to such a Temper as becomes Human Nature, and the Christian Profession; which is chiefly design'd to take off all Moroseness and Sullenness from our Tempers, and to tender us affable, kind, and courteous to each other; willing to think and speak the best of one another; as becomes the Sons of our Father in Heaven, who is our Owner, Governor, and great Benefactor. This Appliation of Goals is not only laying aside all Thoughts

No

W

an

N:

He

has

up

OU

com

one

Bu

fen

his

of

of

bee

a u for

Pr

fee

the

lin

ma

Di Mi

and

CCT

cty

tiy

exc

Wit

of Revenge; but in returning Good for Evil, demonstrates the Loveliness of the Christian Temper. Indeed, how ingaging must it be to have Patience invincible in case of high Provocation! to give no way to Jealousy, Suspicion, or evil Surmise, in case of Doubtfulness, or Uncertainty of another's Meaning! The Rule of Policy is, if any thing be doubtful, always to suspect the worst; but the height of Christian Religion is to imagine the best, and to make a good Construction, where Words and Actions incline to the contrary. This also is a noble way of over-coming a Man, to over-bear our Resentments of an injurious Action, by the Recollection of former Acts of Kindness and Courtely.

'Tis hard measure, to wipe out the Sense of many antecedent Favours, and various Expressions of Faithfulnels, because thro' fome Unhappinels the Person hath been mistaken, and hath done me one Injury. A Man shou'd rather think, that the Injury now done was only accidental, not intentional. 'Tis reasonable that the Experience I have had of his former Fidelity, and many good Offices, shou'd over-bear one Failing of later date; or suppose it was an ill Office, a real Injury which he hath done me, still let him have the Advantage of all his former Acts of Friendship: This is the way to heap Coals of Fire upon his Head, and to melt his Heart, and run it into a Christian Mould. Again, how furprizingly engaging must it be when a Person, out of his own good Nature, or in a Resentment of God's Goodness to him, or in the Consideration of the Fallibility and Frailty of human Nature, will make fuch Condescensions as cannot be demanded or expected? 'Tis thus God deals with us, tho' we feldom do so to one another. How equitable is it to take the disobliging Case into Consideration! to clothe it with all the Circumstances which belong to it, and give all Allow ances to the Person concern'd, for sudden Surprizal, for invincible Ignorance, for contracted Necessity, Necessity, for unavoidable Accident, for something which might befal him which he could not foresee, and at last to give something to the Frailty of human Nature, without any other Consideration! He, who is in this Disposition of Mind, may soften the hardest Heart, and make every one the better with whom he has to do in this World.

n-nc

n-

in-

to

ul-

ule

ect

to

on,

ry.

to

n;

nd

ny

th-

fon ry.

one

ble ty,

ing eal he

his nd

ld.

12

nt-

rare, led

we

to

he

nd

idted

ty,

The Soul of Man is made capable to be wrought upon chiefly by this Compulsion; these Coals only ought to fosten the Hearts of Men. Compel them to come in, that my House may be full, faith our Saviour, in one of his most excellent and instructive Parables. But if the Master of a Family, having provided a bountiful Entertainment for his Neighbours, shou'd fend out his Servants with Fire and Faggot, to drive his Guests to Dinner, and so compel them to partake of his Repast; this would appear to be a savage fort of Hospitality. And if Coals of this Nature have been us'd to bring Men to a Uniformity of Opinion, a useless as well as a hopeless Project, it hath only fet forth the Spirit of Antichrist, and serv'd to harden by Provocation what we shou'd soften by Kindness of Affection. But wou'd we compel Men to participate of the heavenly Doctrine, which Christ has invited all Men to take their Fill of; let us flew forth the Loveliness of that Doctrine, by being of a pacifying, peacemaking, and reconciling Spirit; by being of a tender Disposition, ready to compassionate and help Man in Misery; by being ready to hinder other Mens Sins and Harms, as well as to rejoice in God's Goodness to others, where we have no share, nor are our selves concern'd. Let us be Friends to Goodness, Vertue, Sobriety, Moderation, Temperance, and all Righteousness, where-ever we find them; not regarding the speculative Errors of those who are adorn'd with these most excellent Qualifications: for as the Truth may be held with Untighteousness, so Righteousness may be held with Untruth. Not but that it is an admirable Quality to be communicative of Knowledge, to be ready to Orde instruct the ignorant, to lead the Weak, and guide the quity Feeble in the ways of Religion: This indeed being the Conf only Compulsion which the Soul is capable of receiving 1 ft to its Advantage. And in this way God is universally mean good; He maketh his Sun to shine on the Righteous and Unrigh- Fore teous, Mat. 5. 45. and maketh his Rain to fall upon the Just and and the Unjust. Whereby we may discern the Baseness ofor and Narrowness of that contracted Spirit, which can ago thow no Kindness but to those of its own Spiritual Clan, show no Kindness but to those of its own Spiritual Clan, Busing and particular Separation. What is the Church of which Rome, which calls her felf Catholick, but only fuch a for l peevish Separation? and such like are all other Com- mily munions, who carry their Affection no farther than to up] those of their own Persuasion. Universal Charity is good final in Religion: Devotion in Prayer, Hearing, and fuch receiving the bleffed Communion of the Body and to b Blood of Christ, are only means to attain that great End. And tis this great Christian Virtue which chiefly qualifies us to heap Coals of Fire upon the Heads of our Brethren, to molify their Hearts, and bring them to in I close with us in mutual Kindnesses, tho' they shou'd formerly have been our Enemies. And thus I have endeavour'd to set forth to you the right use of Coals, as ris fer forth in holy Scripture.

A 4

tion

wifi

affil

owi

nei

lick

Ey

his

stic

eth

Di

Bu

hi

18 th

ce

Va

80

But Secondly, if a wrong Use be made of Coals, viz. not tending to fosten the Hearts of Men, but their Heads; to pervert the Use of their Reason and Judg-Lo ment, according to what Moses said, a Gift blindeth the Wife; in this case the Counsel of the Son of Syrack, mention'd in the Text, may take its place, Kindle not the Coals of a Sinner. Agreeable hereunto is a particular Law given by Moses, Exod. 23. 8. And thou shalt take no Gift; for the Gift blindeth the VVise, and perverteth the VV or ds of the Righteons. The Reasons of this wholesom Law of Moles are two: if. Because a Gift blindeth the Wife. 2dly. Because it perverts the Words of the st. Of each of them I shall discourse in their Order, to Order, because they set forth tous the intrinsecal Inihe buity of partaking of Bribery, and also the pernicious he Consequences which follow from thence.

lly gb-

ng A Gift blindeth the Wise: Now by the Wise is meant in this Text, not a Man of any Extraordinary Forelight and Sagacity, of extraordinary great Prudence and Penetration, not a Man skill'd in all parts of Phicis of phical or Polite Learning, but only a Man of such can good share of common sense, as to understand his own an, Business according to the Cicumstances of his Life, of which are futed to his Condition. He knows what is fit for him to do in his Station; how to govern his Fammily, and keep his Servants imploy'd; how to breed to up his Children in the fear of God, and provide y is good and profitable, and sutable Callings for them, and such as their Genius will incline to. He knows Honesty and to be the best Policy, whereby to thrive in his Occupaeat tion; and he has so much Love to his Country, as to efly wish well to its Welfare, and in his finall Sphere to our affist it too. He loves to see Men of Publick Spirit in Places of Publick Trust, and such he prefers in his to ou'd own Choice. Such a Man as this is a wife Citizen; enneither his own private Circumstances, nor the Pubas lick, shall receive any Damage by him. So long as his Eye is single, his whole Body is full of, Light; so long as his Intentions are directed by no other Motive but Juviz. stice and Honesty in his private Dealings, and by a neir idg-Love to the Good of the Community of which he bearthe eth a small share, his Wisdom will yield him sufficient Direction in all the common Circumstances of Life. enthe But now a Gift is bestow'd upon him, which inclines ular him to the Favour of him who seeks to pervert his Intetake grity. The Gift feems to imply some noble Spirit in the the Giver, and some particular Favour towards the Refom ceiver, which being improved may yield future Adthe vantages; so generous, so good a Man deserves his Assithe stance and Application in his behalf. He who was for heir good to him, how good must be needs be to the Publick! der,

eas

ith

n'd

e C

Thus the wife Man was caught in a Snare, as Eve was with Loveliness of the forbidden Fruit in Paradile. R which dazled her Eyes, and deceiv'd her to her utter em Ruin and Destruction. Thus all Bribes and Gifts have ith been de afive to the Eyes, and perverted the Wildom refe of otherwife very fensible Men. But that which ren. ders this Blindness extremely criminal in those who receive Bribes, is this, that they consent willingly and bat wilfully to the Cheat impos'd upon them; for notwith-ate standing the Subtilty of placing a Bribe, the Person uly who is design'd to be deceiv'd thereby, has it still in his e h power to accept or resuse it. It is in his power to consider der to what Ends and Purposes the Bribe is offer'd him: scer sometime the Design is so very openly laid, that it is rive to the meanest Capacity. Such a one expects that your Il S. Favour must supply the defect of his Merit, that his at M. Gift must make Atonement for his Disability and Incapacity. And hence tis manifest, that the brib'd Personal supply the Light even of his own nese Judgment. Perit judicium quoties res transit in affectum; such he has shut out his Judgment, and the Judgment of all es, others, so long as he will be govern'd only by his present ate Inclination. Nothing shews the irregular Freedom of our who Millios Man so much as that it has it in its power and the Will of Man so much, as that it has it in its power app To that out all convictions: Etiamsi persuaseris, non perfuadebis. All Arguments are lost upon a wilful Man; usti bring the strongest Arguments are lost upon a wilful Man; usting the strongest Arguments from the Comeliness of oper Vertue, the Charms of Honesty, the Benefit of some of Honesty, the Benefit of some of Honesty, the Benefit of some of this Golden Dream, by the dread of some imminent he will still shut his like busy, and without considering the Premises will hold sall to his Conclusion. And herein sieth the intrinsick luitout of admitting of Bribes, that such a one inverse the Order of Nature which God has created in his Soul, and prostitutes the Divine Creation of his God to base out and prostitutes the Divine Creation of his God to base out himself, when the leading Faculty of his Soul, his socious of himself, when the leading Faculty of his Soul, his socious of himself, when the leading Faculty of his Soul, his socious of himself, when the leading Faculty of his Soul, his socious and prostitutes the leading Faculty of his Soul, his socious and prostitutes are selected in his Soul, his socious and prostitutes are selected in his Soul, his socious and prostitutes are selected in his Soul, his socious and prostitutes are selected in his Soul, his socious are selected in his selected in his socious are selected in his selected in his selected in his selected Reason was cason, holds the Ballance over all his Affections with ife. I Judgment and Equity: When he can call his tter emory to his Affistance, and compare what is past ave ith those things which are present, and discern the om esent Designs and Circumstances by what has hap n'd of the like nature heretofore: when the right of ore e Case, and the reason of the thing, shall be freely and bated without any Biass or ill turn given to the plain of the Case as it lies before us. Then is a Man son uly in the Use of himself, when he can discern where his e honest part lies, which draws the beneficial part im: seem the seeming from the real Advantage, the Re-it is rivate from the Re-publick; when a Man can discern out I Self-love to be false and treacherous, which biasses his ar Minds in any degree from affifting above all things Per crations. Tis not every Person who can enter into own hele Considerations; but yet Men of a midling Stature um; If Knowledge may discern the Benefit of publick Sociefall es, and their happy Influence upon the Affairs of Prifent ate Persons: Such may know, that if the publick of jountains are poison'd, the private Cisterns, which are wer apply'd from them, will be of dangerous Influence. per Now Bribery corrupts the very Fountain of publick lan; ustice. How many Persons is such an Officer oblig'd is of o protect from Justice, who assisted him into the Seat ome of Honour, whereunto Justice is fo closely annex'd? A of ribing Magistrate has bargain'd away in great measure, ment he very End and Design of his Office; may, he has lest his his very Liberty: for he who has taken the Bribe, will lifall ither command him, or reproach him to his Face. Inition the Giver and Receiver of Bribes have in their verts urns engaged each other to mutual Slavery. Would soul, ou then preserve that Liberty which God has granted base you in the free Use of your Reason and Judgment, for the behoof of the publick Weal, or any other inferior , his society subordinate thereunto? Would you preserve cason

simo

eak l

meti

ve l

here

en t eal

H

ony ftra

ter

rin

inei

th

ie In

YOU

11101

eal

de

m in an

an

u

that share of Wisdom, which is your constant Com panien and chief Affistant in all the Affairs of Life, and which in all Exigences shall be present to you as your be Bosom-Friend, Comforter and Counsellor? Wou'd you be useful, tho' but in a low Station, to the Publick Weal Above all things, keep your Eyes open, that Blindie may not be contracted by Gifts; as you love your Eyes avoid the Smoak of Bribery. Kindle not in this fent the Coals of a Sinner.

ake. 2dly. A Gift perverts the Words of the Rights ous, i. e. corrupts his Vote as well as his Senfe ! le oulc every one therefore who is engag'd in the Choice of strai tak publick Magistrates, take a view of the Qualificationso a Magistrate, such as Moses set forth to the People of Ifrael te: Able Men, fearing God, and bating Covetousness, &c. The e ha Ability of the Man falls first under Consideration. Can Thi he discern the true Interest of his Country, or of the small l, c ie C ler Community to which he belongs, from false Aprefe pearances, from private, narrow, and by-Ends; from if v the Designs of particular Factions, wherein himself may perhaps have some by-Interest or selfish Designs? Is he to able, as to know that if he cannot do the Good he aims ar, yet he will not disturb the Peace of the Society, and embarass those Affairs which he cannot amend? Is his Eye simple, having only the publick Good in his view, not taking an Office to gain himself Esteem without Desert, or to oppress his Neighbour, and discharge his Power and Malice upon his Enemy? Has the Man an honest meaning? If so, then small Paris and Abilities will affift him in the discharge of his Duty. Was he not pragmatical in the last Office he discharg'd? Did he not shew himself over-desirous of it; but behav'd himself modestly and soberly in it, without Offentation or making too great a Courtship to his Superiours, when at the same time he casts contempt, or took no notice of those who were below him? Magistratus indicat wirum. A Man is try'd very much by an Office: for not only his intellectual, but

m

bef

cal

116

but

his

s moral Abilities will be shewn to open view. A cak Man in an Office is laid under constant Care, and metimes is subjected to great perplexities how to beand we himself, when he meets with any case of moment, herein the Publick may be concern'd. He has not YOU en us'd to curious Speculations, nor has the Publick real taken up any share of his Thoughts. He has set s Head upon the one thing necessary, how to get yes ony; but as for any other Concern, he is wholly enfi stranger to it. How many shifts will such a one hte ake, to keep off from coming to the Question, lest he let ould betray his Ignorance and Folly. But if the Mastrate has gain'd his Office by Bribery, he will be fure e of take the profitable side of the Question in any de-150 te: French, Turk, or Tartar, are all alike to him; for rael The has been a great while out of his Mony. But, Can Thirdly, To proceed to Application. And first of nal-I, our Thanks are due to God, by whose Bleffing Apple Citizens of this great City are in so great measure rom referv'd from falling into the Snare of Bribery; so as oself if we may guess the Whole by a Part) to shew their gns? ter detestation and abhorrence of so base and soul a rime. With what indignation was this Proposal ood merally received? informuch that what St. Paul wrote the anot the Corinthians, may be in great measure apply'd to blick elnhabitants of this Ward: What Carefulness it wrought nself you; yea, what clearing of your selves; yea, what Indigour, tion; yea, what Fear; what vehement Desire; yea, what my? eal; yea, what Revenge! In all things ye have approved ur selves to be clear in this matter : 2 Cor. 7. 11. And mall deed the whole City feems to refent the Injury ate of mpted upon the Ward. So that as bad Manners adffice initer occasion to the making of good Laws, in like rous anner an evil Example of one Man has stirr'd up n it, any to exert their Virtue and Integrity, to-the muhip al Comfort of one another, and the Honour and conthown of this great Protestant City, the Envy of wols e Gates of Babylon, the Refuge of distressed and pervery uted Christians, the Bulwark of the Reform'd Re·ligion,

ot

neli

ofte

cal Vh

inn

cpr

hat

truc

avi

O.V

era,

Mal

her

pear

ggt

hei

y r

lon

hei

els

ure

atu

aiai n Ic

rm'

72

S

Aigion, and Protector of the Liberties of Europe. Wh reason then have we to bless God the Father of all Con forts who brought Light out of Darkness, an Order of of Confusion, that by his gracious Providence he had order'd it, that by the Fall of one Man very man have been rais'd to a true lense of virtuous Resolut mions ! Let me speak one word to you, as to go Choiltians and honest Englishmen : Do you think the Magistracy which is a Divine Ordinance, should be pu schas'd by filthy Lucre ! Are not honest Hearts an clean Hands the best Qualifications for it? Does the Publick Weal admit of any By ends, any finister ! rentions? Is it not much better to be poor, and bear ago Heart to God and your Country, than to dwell in t Tents of Bribery and Ungodlines : Brown Bread an the Gospel are good Fare, and a good Conscience is continual Feast. To conclude, Let us all thank G that a Gift did not pervert the Words of the Righteoms.

But secondly, What measure shall be meted to hi who would have blinded the Wife with a Gift, and o werted the Words of the Righteom? Know then, that are not now under the Law, but under Grace; that is, u der the Gospel-Dispensation of Mercy and Kindne which in the highest measure, beyond all human Im gination, has been in the most wonderful and stupe dous manner offer'd to Mankind by our Saviour le Christ Such an extraordinary Example of Iniquit had it been given out under the Law, some Zeals would have soon appear'd to take vengeauce, and to away the Wrath of God from his People Ifrael. we have not fo learned Christ, nor does it become Men are freed from Vengeance only by the Mercy God. Let St. Paul rule our Conduct in this Cal Gat. 6. 1. Brethren, if a Man be overtaken in a Fal ye which are spiritual restore such a one in the Spirit of Me ness; considering thy falf, lest thou also be tempted. Int sense let us heap Coals upon the head of our Broth 01

an

lut

800

th pu an

s th

rg

god

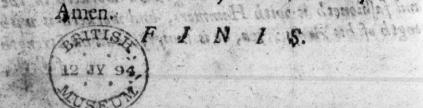

nt

d an ot to burn, but (as has been faid in the foregoing art of this Sermon) to fosten him, to mollify and nele him down into a good Temper; that we may often him into a true Love to his Country, and to his poor Neighbourhood; that he may bestow that upon cal Charity, which was formerly otherwise intended. Wherefore in this case les wondt kindle the Coals of a inner; that is, let us not be too harp and fevere in proving a Sinner, for the Words of the Text bear hat Sense very well; but rather let us put the best conruction upon the Failings of our Brother. Thus our aviour Jesus Christ, after he had charg'd his Disciples watch with him, Mat. 26. 38. Then faid be unto them, My Soul is exceeding forrowful even unto death: Tarry ye en, and wateb with me. Yet were the Disciples so readdess of this Command, that they soon forgot their e is Malter in his great extremity; for he foon came to hem, and found them fast alleep. Yet fee how he eaps Coals of Fire on their Heads. He is far from ohi ggravating their Fault, and objecting the Groffness of nd p her Neglect upon so extraordinary occasion. nat y represents their Fault to Pair without any aggravais, u ion; he faith unto Peter, What, could ye not warch with idne ne one bour? and presently heaps Coals of Fire on n Im heir head, laying their Fault not upon the Frowardlupe els of their Will, but on the Frailty of their Nar lel ue: The Spirit indeed is willing, but the Flesh is weak. iquit like manner let us heap Coals of Fire upon the head Zeale the Blacksmith, and make the best construction of nd tu hat has happen'd; not imputing to the Malice of 1. B is Will what may be better plac'd to the account of come atural Weakness and human Frailty. The Prophet best alab represents the Folly of this Artificer in making ercy Idol by his own Labour; Isa. 44. 10, 12. s Cal m'd a God, or molten a graven Image, that is profitable a Fai nothing? The Smith with the Tongs both worketh in the of Me eals, and fashioneth it with Hammers, and worketh it with Int e Strength of his Arms: yea, he is hungry, and his Strength Broth fatletb:

faileth; be drinketh no water, and is faint. Hereby the Propher thews forth the great Weakness of fuch mean Artificer, as to attempt a thing infinitely above his Genius to conceive. The Greatness of the Attemp shows the uncommon Impotency and Weakness of the Person. And why should it be thought a strange thing that a Man of mean Quality and low Education, fa out of the way of abstracted Thoughts or philosophi cal Confiderations, but applying his Mind only to on thing of profitable concern to himfelf, should mistak the nature of such an excellent Vertue as Charity, s as to mix it with a base Allay, very unsutable to it high Dignity, in the rank of Moral or Christian Ver tues? Love and Compassion to the Souls of Men, a they are our Fellow-Creatures, Partakers of the Di vine Image, and Fellow-Members of the fame Socie ty, of which Jesus Christ is the Head; are above th thoughts of one who is always (like Marcha) incum ber'd about too many things. 'Tis a kindness to forge Miscarriages of this nature: Wherefore let him no more be nam'd to Honour or Dishonour; much les let his fingle Example be made use of, to cast an un kind Reflection upon this great and populous City, in which I hope God will always delight to dwell: And may he continue to counsel their Counsellors, and teach their Senators Wildom; may he bless them will Industry, and make the Hand of the Diligent to prof per: May Truth and Justice, Unity and Order, and whatfoever things are profitable and praife-worthy flourish and abound among them: May they be a Ter rour to all Tyranny and Oppression, a constant Che rither of Liberty, and Chastister of Licentionsness; and may the Praise thereof go forth among all Nations.

Now to God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, be all Honour and Glory both now and for everyone Amen.

the harmonic the ing far the large t y, in And and with profe and rthy Ter Che

Ter Che and

e, b